

Managed Threat Intelligence Service Achieve Threat Intel Maturity

A mature threat intelligence program enables organizations to proactively protect their data and customers, make smarter decisions, and strengthen their overall defenses. However, the process of building or strengthening a threat intelligence program may be time consuming and complicated. There is a lot of noise to parse through to find the signal, it is often expensive, and having the right people, who can spend the right amount of time, may be an even bigger challenge.

K logix's Managed Threat Intel Service is a low cost "Threat Intel Program in a Box" to help you strengthen or build a mature threat intel program. Our experts monitor critical sources of intel, provide analysis directly related to your industry, and can act and engage in strategic ways to reduce your exposure to threats before a breach.

K LOGIX'S MANAGED THREAT INTEL SERVICE:

- Intelligence Curation: Initial Access - K logix monitors initial access broker discussions and negotiations for any mention of client organizations. We notify key contacts at your organization and provide any situational awareness available.
- Intelligence Curation: Impact - This includes domain monitoring of dark web posts, public notices and new stories for signs of breaches, and provide client notification when needed. K logix maintains access to one of the largest databases of breached credentials and can review and analyze for critical user data.
- Dedicated Threat Intel Analyst - Our Analysts act as your own threat intelligence team and will enrich your organization by providing: Threat Exposure Workshops, User Awareness Trainings, and Alerts or Quarterly Threat Review Reports.
- Custom Reporting - Receive customized reporting specific to your organization and its goals related to threat intelligence. Reports are tailored for executive audiences, providing key content to reduce your risk.

Threat Intel is difficult, expensive and prone to signal overload. We provide curation of unique data feeds that deliver more signal and less noise, and we include the people you need to start or augment your own threat intel program.
